The Finest Bakery Goods Made in Memphis.

THAT'S another thing you should take into consideration—besides being the highest quality possible to make, Barker Bakery goods all cost less than if made of same high priced materials at home.

Take our Parker House Rolls, for instance; the flour is the best hard wheat grade—we pay an extra high price for it. The dough is made with rich, fresh milk and best cane sugar. As they come from the oven the rolls are buttered with the highest grade creamery butter.

Better rolls were never made—they're light and white, with a delicate golden top. Get them hot from the ovens here—heat them again at home just before serving, and they'll melt in your mouth.

REPEALS SOUTH AGAINST LEAGUE

Missouri Senator, Speaking at Atlanta, Says Plan Would Sacrifice National Rights and Endanger Its People.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 11.—Appealing to the South to stand against the league of nations, Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, declared at a mass meeting here last night that the league plan would sacrifice national rights and place the destinies of the American people in the hands of foreign kings and diplomats.

"I come to you," said Senator Reed, "as an old-fashioned, plain, pure Democrat. I have never scratched a Democratic ticket. I believe in the doctrine of local self-government. I believe the interests of the American people are safer in the hands of the representatives of all the people assembled in Washington than they will be in the hands of the representatives of the governments, kings and autocrats of Europe and Asia."

"I deny the right of any temporary officeholder to employ the powers of his office as to compel your sons to sacrifice their lives in the contests of other nations while he sits here safe at home."

Charging that a vast propaganda for the league had been organized by former President Taft and backed largely by international bankers, Mr. Reed continued:

"In part this propaganda has been illegally paid for by the United States. Even while the Liberty loan drives were on, literature advocating the league was being distributed at government expense, was furnished by the four-minute speakers who were to address audiences. But outside the money thus furnished from the government, the sum expended has been so enormous as to create a scandal. The source of this stream of gold has been found chiefly in the great international bankers and financiers."

"There is but one America," declared the Missouri senator. "It is in the abandonment of the policy which made her great and the substitution of visions and dreams of Woodrow Wilson for the practical sense and sublime patriotism of George Washington."

TEXAS SOLONS FAIL TO ASK OFFICIAL TO QUIT

AUSTIN, Tex., July 11.—The lower house of the Texas legislature adjourned late yesterday without having taken action on a resolution asking for the resignation of Walter J. Crawford, member of the board of regents of the state normal school, for his alleged connection with an attempt to relinquish the state's option to purchase the Blue Ridge prison farm.

The resolution, introduced by Representative Pope, of Nueces county, was based on a report of a legislative investigating committee which report and testimony adduced at committee hearings had shown that Crawford, while acting as attorney for the owner of the Blue Ridge farm, had sought to enter into a new contract in which the state's option to purchase the property at the expiration of its seven-year lease was to be canceled. The testimony, according to the report, showed that oil had been found on the farm.

The Blue Ridge farm of 6,000 acres is being operated as a prison farm by the state, only three years of its seven-year lease having expired.

WESTWARD THE COURSE OF ALLEGED DOPE SELLER

Westward to Muskogee, Okla., to answer charges of selling narcotics will be the course taken by Dr. C. A. McAllister, who was arrested by deputies under S. H. Tresevant 10 days ago on certified copies of two Oklahoma indictments. An order was issued in United States district court Thursday afternoon providing for the removal of the prisoner after a petition had been filed by W. D. Kyser, United States district attorney.

TANGLE OF OCCUPATIONS.

It is not often that anything funny is developed when a bit of the wreckage of womanhood is tossed by the madstrom of the law into the police court, but one case Thursday afternoon brought a laugh from spectators and a smile from city Judge Louis T. Fitch.

Detective Popolino testified that he had arrested the defendant on South Main street for a plainly unlawful act. The case seemed complete.

"What do you do for a living?" queried Judge Fitch.

"I've been a waitress all of my life," the woman answered in a tone so low the judge could not hear.

"What's that?" he said.

The woman, evidently guilty of the charge against her, switched her defense.

"I work in an alteration department," she said.

Again the judge couldn't hear. "What do you talk louder," he said.

"I work in the alteration department of a restaurant," was her astonishing answer.

"Hum-m-m," mused Judge Fitch. "You must change your name into porthouse. You are fined $25."

JEWELRY INDUSTRY NEEDS EX-SOLDIERS

Disabled soldiers discharged from duty who are either skilled jewelers or who are willing to go through a course of apprenticeship in order to learn jewelry manufacturing, are in great demand in all the big jewelry centers of the United States, according to an announcement by the war department through Col. Arthur Woods, assistant secretary of war and in charge of the campaign for re-employment of ex-service men.

Manufacturers are said to be at their wits' end to keep anywhere within hailing distance of filling orders. Some are bidding against their competitors, hiring men away from others at greatly advanced wages.

Every opportunity is offered ex-service men, whether disabled or not, to become liberal wage earners at an early date as possible, without reference to apprenticeship limitations. Men who have lost either a leg or a foot can easily become bench hands or stone cutters. Men whose health has been injured by gas or otherwise can find employment in the jewelry manufacturing industry under excellent sanitary conditions.

TO BUILD WAREHOUSE.

CO-OPERATIVE SELLING INCREASES THE PROFITS

The co-operative marketing of poultry has increased the profits of the poultry raisers of Polkett county, Ark., considerably, besides increasing the interest in poultry raising in that county. In a letter from S. P. Dent, county agent of Polkett county, and Miss Nina Henderson, home demonstration agent in the Chamber of Commerce farm bureau, a shipment made from Harrisburg, Ark., is cited to demonstrate the increased profits which co-operative marketing of poultry gives. This shipment of hens, cocks and springers, totaling 210-60, was sent by express and sold in St. Louis. Had it been sold on the local market, it would have brought but $110.53. $22.16 less than was received by co-operative marketing. This made a 20 per cent additional profit to the 10 shippers interested.
